

Daily connection between Southern Germany and Rotterdam

Fast and reliable between port and front door

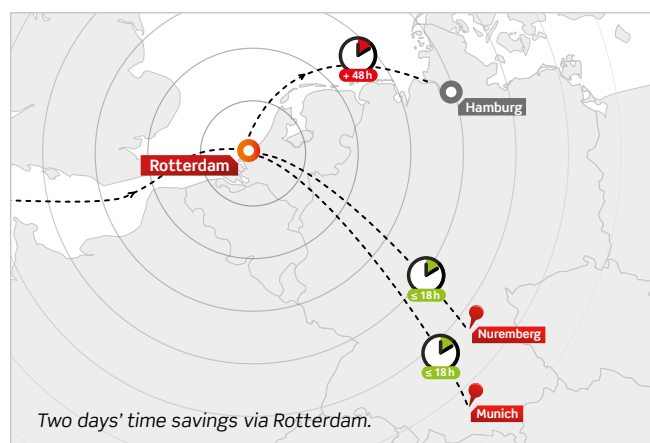

The Rotterdam-Bayern Express offers you a daily connection between Southern Germany and Rotterdam. Fast, reliable and competitive. With that, the Rotterdam-Bayern Express constitutes a serious alternative to container transport via the North German ports. European Gateway Services (EGS) arranges everything for you between port and front door.

Highly favourable transit times

The route via Rotterdam offers you substantial time savings. For many deepsea shipping lines, Rotterdam is the first and last port of call in Europe. This results in highly favourable transit times. While the deepsea ship is en route to the North German ports after having called at Rotterdam, your container is already bound for Southern Germany aboard the Rotterdam-Bayern Express. This can save two days just like that. In the opposite direction, outbound cargo from Southern Germany can be loaded onto the train later and still make the required deepsea connection in Rotterdam.

Fiscal advantage as well

Furthermore, importing via Rotterdam yields important cash flow advantages. Through so-called fiscal representation, VAT payments can be deferred to the moment the cargo is delivered in (Southern) Germany. When importing through the North German ports, VAT is already due immediately upon arrival and a possible reimbursement follows later.

From and to all major container terminals

In Rotterdam, the Rotterdam-Bayern Express directly calls at Hutchison Ports ECT Delta and Hutchison Ports ECT Euromax at the Maasvlakte, with easy onward transport to and from all surrounding container terminals at the whole Maasvlakte area (1 and 2). In Rotterdam's city area, the train to and from Munich calls at the Rail Service Center (RSC).

Reliable partners in Southern Germany

In Southern Germany, the TriCon Container Terminal in Nuremberg serves as the turnaround point three times a week and DUSS-Terminal München-Riem does so three times a week. Both inland terminals have an outstanding reputation in the fast and reliable handling of trains.

Between port and front door through one party

From Nuremberg and Munich, EGS also offers customised pre-transport and post-transport. Our services extend between port and front door; simply leave everything up to us. Cargo which departs by train from Rotterdam on day 1 is at any destination in Southern Germany on day 3. Rotterdam-bound, similar transit times apply.
